Bachelor of Arts

College of Humanities, Arts and Social Sciences

Program Overview Modern Languages offerings develop language proficiency and cultural awareness through collaborative classes where effective communication is the primary goal. Advanced courses in the Bachelor of Arts in Spanish degree foster knowledge of the language, history, and cultural productions (art, literature, film, and music) of the vast Spanish-speaking world. These classes, taught entirely in Spanish, provide students with the real-life communicative, research, and analytical skills essential for various professions both within and beyond our national borders. Students interact in Spanish to promote language competence approaching that of native speakers.

Career Opportunities As business, government, and non-governmental agencies expand their interests into the global network, English serves as a lingua franca for this expansion, but true communication and cultural understanding require that U.S. participants learn other languages. Increasingly, language ability in Spanish is a desired or required skill for jobs in international enterprises. The Latino population is the fastest growing U.S. segment, especially in Texas. Along with population growth has come a rise in concern for Spanish as a heritage language. Spanish is needed in health careers (nursing, pharmacy, optometry, physical therapy, medicine, military, and federal and state government agencies), social services, and law enforcement. Spanish-language media and advertising have also increased, providing more demand for educated writers and speakers of the language. Spanish is also needed in social services, in hospitals, and in the courts. High school Spanish teachers and bilingual teachers are actively recruited.
